

Accelrys Training Services

Do you want to minimize the time it takes to get up and running with your software purchase? Do you want to become an expert user of your Accelrys product? Do you want immediate and effective use of your software tools?

Accelrys' training workshops:

- provide you with the information and skills you need to make the most effective use of your software in your research process
- provide you with that rapid return on investment which is a high priority for any scientific company in today's competitive environment
- jump-start the familiarization process and save you time and effort by reducing the learning curve and helping to unlock the maximum potential of your scientific tools

"We found our training session extremely useful. We managed to cover a great deal of material over the course of two days; resolving outstanding technical issues and understanding the software in much greater depth. The training comprised of technical overviews, in depth discussions and hands on use of the software. The staff were well versed with the software and we were able to answer our questions in detail. Many thanks."
